

Welcome everyone, especially to those looking for healing.

Today I would like to share with you how you can heal your own bodies from bodily imbalances that even your medical scientists may say is terminal or that you may just have to live life with the imbalance.

Nonsense, nothing is terminal, there is no death, though for some people they have reached the point of the earth plane where their bodily imbalance is the catalyst for them to make their journey home. But they do not die, it is a shocking word, I say shocking in the literal sense as it puts many of the organs in your body into shock.

Words have power, words carry energy, and the frequency from those words alone can be used to heal or destroy.

There have been countless occasions of misdiagnosis in modern medicine where a good soul has been informed that there is nothing medical science can do for them, as a consequence their “faith” in that persons diagnosis being correct leads to the body’s submission as almost always the body takes instruction from the mind, the mind rarely follows the body.

There lay an example of the power of words. The prognosis only has to be stated and the patient manifests the outcome of that prognosis without question. Therefore changing the outcome of that prognosis with conscious thought is not considered, which, without alternative considerations often leads with certainty to their transition back home.

Likewise, using power words and therefore their frequency to heal is also possible and has been recorded as so for centuries now.

The frequency of the word, I may tell you is actually only part of the healing process, the quality of the spoken word raises the frequency of healing words. And quality is a practice that needs like all things to be nurtured.

Sound and light are also a great healers, this, your scientists are beginning to re-disclose to you right now slowly and steadily. I say re-disclose for this technology was revealed and then hidden from the public over a century ago, like many other technologies of the day.

And this is why mantra's, chanting and prayerful singing make great healing frequencies. The bigger the numbers chanting, the more powerful the frequency becomes.

Sound frequency does put out fire and directed sound does move the most heaviest of objects of all shapes, sizes and material via directional frequency of sound.

So please be patient with me for the short while in allowing me some brief moments to fill your mind with possibilities, for we are all born equal and we are all born healers and with self belief, confidence and intention, you also can release that great healing potential that has been bestowed upon you.

It is lack of self belief, confidence and intention that prevents you from your healing potential. Is it because you feel you are unworthy of such a gift? Or is it because you are concerned in which light people witness you by?

Either way, this is not the frequency you are to remain in should your desire be to heal, regardless of the module you choose as it all comes down to love and the divine.

For those of you looking on at a loved one with their “terminal” imbalance, the time frame upon their arrival back home will be self evident and clear.

We understand your suffering, however, it is ever so important that your point of attention should be in the first instance in a supporting role, and by doing so remove your self emotionally from any outcome.

A supporting roles is simply to allow, just to be present and focus attention on loving thoughts and memories.

We understand your suffering at this time, your thoughts, and therefore your words create a vibrational field, which can give rise to the thought of the patient to change or not complete their life plan, an outcome that is neither desired nor perhaps not required at this time.

It creates for a short while some confusion for the person in question.

The decision to remain or go back home may be arbitrary at this point in time. The decision to stay on the earth plane or go home may have not yet been decided or disclosed to the patient.

Often when the resting person is asleep or in a coma, they experience what you would call out of the body experiences. This is true also of people experiencing extreme sudden trauma such as an automobile accident.

I can assure you at the point of impact their soul is removed from their bodies and experience what you call a near death experience.

In both cases these dear souls speak with their guides and often a discussion is taken place as to whether they remain in spirit or remain with the body.

We often see that due to the overwhelming love and the absence of judgement that they feel, they have no desire to return to the body even if it is written that they must. For the circumstance that took them out other body was possibly one of many experiences they agreed upon before coming to the earth plane.

So sometimes it is necessary for them to return as they have a mission to complete, a message to share or they simply have not fulfilled their life contract. Once these are fulfilled they are free return at any time they choose.

We understand the need that you to feel is to do more, but love is everything, there is nothing else to do, that's it.

You will understand and be able to apply this concept better as we continue on our journey together here today.

And so you must learn to channel love energy to heal both yourselves and to channel that healing energy towards and into the mind and body of others.

Love fears not consequence, it simply does because it knows there is nothing else that can do so much. In point of fact there is nothing else that can do anything and everything that is good, even if at first it is not the desired outcome of your choosing.

You must cast any doubts in your ability to heal the self and by doing so be that channel of light for others. Love is the healing frequency! Love, is the healing frequency!

Healing also allows a dear soul an easy transition, yes as healers, this is a beautiful gift that is sadly not fully recognised by many many healers. And this transition can often be delayed by up to two earth weeks with the help of a healer, allowing time for loved ones to gather for their somewhat temporary goodbyes.

And so, now onto more pleasant and inspiring information for your earthly minds.

We should now consider your qualities as a channel for healing. There are many paths one can take in this field and I will guide you through two of them.

Faith healing as opposed to spiritual healing requires great faith in the channels ability to be fully cognisant in that he or she is 100% synchronised, fully aware and in the presence of the holy spirit, and has surrendered temporarily their mind and body through which the power of the holy spirit's healing takes place.

It also requires that the dear soul coming for healing fully accepts that the channel does indeed have the ear of the holy spirit, otherwise there is a frequency mismatch, spontaneous remission may not be possible, I say may not, because all things are possible with the divine.

It is fashionable these days for many so called faith healers to speak in tongues during the process. I cannot speak for all healers that speak in tongues, I can inform you all though that there are very few enlightened people that have been gifted with speaking in tongues. Sadly most of those proclaiming to speak in tongues, though somewhat good and well meaning souls, are delusional. Mostly it is utter gibberish and nonsensical talk, there is no connection with the holy spirit. It is only when these abstract words are spoken by holy spirit, does this “gibberish” have purpose.

Some healing can be received through talking gibberish as it can allow a passage of free flowing healing energy to the recipient from the healer. And like the medicine men who tell you that you must get your affairs in order and be ready to transit and you believe them so, it is the same with faith healing.

If the recipient believes the healer is talking in tongues and that indeed it is the work of the holy spirit which in turn leads to him or her believing that they are healed, then it is so. Already done - already healed!

To be the channel for the holy spirit requires faith, and that you answer the call of the holy spirit, we are all called but only some chose to take up the challenge and commitment of unconditional service to the divine. The ego during the process must be 100% removed which I may add is quite a considerable task considering the perceived power you may think you have. As a faith healer you have no power. none!

Faith healing also requires sound, I mentioned words have power and using the correct words with passion and spoken out loud often creates the frequency for the holy spirit to work through.

In the mega churches, a congregation of sometimes thousands, praying, chanting and simply exuding just pure unconditional love for the person to be healed, raises not only the frequency for healing without intervention from a healer but indeed also opens that healing channel of the healer to allow easily the healing energy of the holy spirit.

So it is not always the channel that the holy spirit comes through but rather through the whole or collective.

Naturally, spontaneous remission when supported by large groups in prayerful thoughts, singing and chanting makes it all the more possible, though not exclusive. Many faith healers go about their work unnoticed away from big crowds and ceremonies.

And so I say to you all , is it not written that if you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you can move mountains. When you understand this you will understand that you can be healed if you surrender to the healing power of the holy spirit.

And should you choose to surrender then understand that healing will take place in one form or another. It may very well be spontaneous. But please do remember spontaneous remission can also mean a smooth and easy transition onto the next adventure in life. All your prayers are heard and all prayers are answered.

you must not look upon someones failure to be healed as the person being forsaken by the divine, remember there're life plans and contracts that need to be fulfilled, this may just be one experience. One thing is certain, your healing presence does not go un-noticed and the person you send healing to receives the exact amount that is required, permitted or the body can manage.

So you also can heal your self with the intervention of the holy spirit, ask, believe and readily receive. Thats all there is to it. But be patient you need to practice ask, believe and receive in your everyday life.

We suggest this protocol is best served incrementally. Begin healing your body with some small issues and eventually build your faith to accommodate larger or more concerning issues.

I can here you say disappointingly, thats it? but yes, thats it! When you understand a miracle healing is only a miracle until you understand that miracles are mere frequency matches, then you will find it easier to apply the protocol.

And so what of spiritual healing. Isn't this the same as faith healing. Actually no, the the desired outcome is the same, the dear soul requiring healing does not need to have faith in any omnipotent being, the only requirement is the desire to be healed.

Due to lack of understanding they have not recognised that they actually do not need an intermediary and that they have the capability of healing themselves with 100% intention, focus and feeling the desired outcome required.

Though there is a caveat to this, and that is if you are experiencing pain then outside support is almost always a better option. Better still, healing through the collective is an even better option.

We have much evidence to support self healing and there is one of you in the community of whom shall remain nameless, who despite medical science stating that it is time to go home and get their affairs in order, is still on the earth plane, defying all medical knowledge.

How is this possible? What is the secret? In this case it is really only a matter of listening to the body and allowing the body to decide what it requires for healing. The belief that the self is doing right by the body has placed this person in the correct healing frequency, it could be stronger, but alas due to human frailty the ego mind asks too many questions.

And so now let me put assurance into your mind over the many concerns many you have over the medical and sometimes forced intervention the world has been plagued with.

Many have concerns that this intervention has everlasting damage and changes the human body from the gift of free will into somewhat of a no longer independent living soul. Some may believe also that it has cut off the “God” frequency or 7th Chakra and above that connects you to the divine. For some it is true, they have been temporarily cut off. I repeat only temporarily. We know of other monstrous compounds in this intervention doing unspeakable things to the body. All of this is true only for some people under certain circumstances.

But hear me well, for this day shall not pass where mankind will ever be separated from the divine.

In a previous channelled message I expressed the reason for the ringing in the ears, part of this is also to assist you in ridding of all toxins from the body, all toxins, emotional and physical, even those that some would have you believe that once in the body cannot leave.

What nonsense, such foolishness. I say to you, such rubbish is spoken only from the lips of fools.

Soon it will be revealed to you how light and sound will be readily available to rid the body of all impurities.

Faith alone, would accomplish this. For is it not written “your faith has made you well”

I can also say with surety that there are scientists amongst you, who have not kissed the sun for many months, who have almost ready a serum to neutralise the effects of adverse medical intervention and this will be distributed as soon as possible.

Your job is to keep your spirits high, keep the faith within yourself, be positive and keep all the gossip and small talk away from your personal and professional life.

Why focus on all this foolish talk and all that is wrong with the world when you could be laughing, loving and having fun. In this frequency alone you begin to heal.

As we make our way through this year of what you have come to believe is 2022, which by point of fact is not, nonetheless, we should see great great great progress as we head fully into 5D. It cannot be stopped, it will happen and you and all the inhabitants of mother earth can help arrive there with God's speed.

Positive thoughts, love, courage, self belief, belief in the divine, belief in angels, in light workers.

These faith-like emitting frequencies from the self are so natural that there is not one single toxin that is able to separate you permanently from the divine or a toxin that cannot be removed from the etheric or physical body.

Please remember, in every aspect of life: All battles are first lost and won in the mind. Putting your conscious mind beyond the possibility of defeat ensures that victory lies in your own hands.
